Announcement: Gulmay Medical Ltd acquires IRS Medical

On the 1st May 2008, Gulmay Medical Ltd, the global leader in Superficial X-ray therapy equipment and services, have acquired IRS medical, our servicing partner on Gulmay's existing UK medical, research and industrial calibration systems.

Gulmay have been working in partnership with IRS medical for some time and after the successful implementation of this servicing agreement the decision was taken to acquire IRS medical, integrating them into Gulmay Medical Ltd to provide not only equipment servicing but also installation of all new Gulmay Medical equipment.

This merger allows Gulmay Medical to expand its services to fully satisfy each customer's specific installation requirements by offering either a full turnkey solution or room refurbishment, including end of service equipment decommission and disposal in line with the WEEE regulations where necessary. By integrating IRS Medical's expertise into Gulmay Medical's well established service provision, we can provide customers with an enhanced seamless refurbishment, production and installation programme to meet the needs of their specific environment.

This joint collaboration has key benefits for both companies as explained by the company directors;

"This acquisition provides significant value to both Gulmay Medical Ltd and our customers. It has allowed Gulmay Medical Ltd to further increase its engineering capacity thereby ensuring all new and existing customers receive enhanced service and support during both installation and contracted preventative maintenance".

Martin Robinson, Managing Director; Gulmay Medical Ltd.

"The addition of the GM engineering and service personnel resource will greatly expand IRS (Medical) Limited's ability to contract for room upgrades and refurbishments as well as the installation service and management of CCTV both in Radiotherapy departments and the wider range of departments where these are suitable for use".

John Adams; IRS Projects Director.
